Care Sheets

Scientific Name: Pantherophis guttata

Native to: United States

Maximum Length: 4-6 feet

Life Span: 10-15 years

General Information

Our corn snakes are captive bred in our facility. These snakes make great pets for beginners and experienced snake lovers. They have a very gentle nature, are very easy to care for and come in a wide variety of colors.

General Care

Enclosure: Use a 10 gallon or larger aquarium for babies. Make sure the snake is no more than twice as long as its enclosure. Also provide hiding place and branches for the snake to climb on. Provide a secure enclosure corn snakes are known as great escape artists.

Substrate: You can use Aspen shavings, mulch-type commercial material, dampened sphagnum moss, bark and pelleted paper.

Habitat: Corn snakes love hiding spaces and branches to climb on. Keep humidity of 40-60%.

Temperature: Temperature during the day should be kept around 80-85° F. Night temperature should be between 75-80° F. Under tank heaters work well for maintaining a proper temperature.

Lighting: Corn snakes need 10-12 hours of day light. Use black or infrared light to view snakes at night.

Food and Water: Baby corn snakes will eat pinkie mice. As they get older they will eat adult mice and baby rats. Feed corn snakes once every week in a separate container by themselves. Don't feed them in the same container you house them, or they might bite your hands when you try to hold them. Provide a bowl of chlorine-free water large enough for your snake to soak in.
